SOCIAL and PERSONAL

A brilliant wedding celebrated last evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Jefferson Club was that of Miss Rae Rosenbloom, daughter of Moses Rosenbloom, of Gilbert Greenlee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myer Greenlee. The ceremony, which took place in the ballroom of the club, was performed by Dr. E. N. Callach, and a string orchestra played the "Wedding March" from "Lohengrin" as the bride party entered. The ballroom and dining-room were elaborately decorated throughout in pink and white, with a background of Southern smiles. The bride and groom stood for the ceremony beneath a canopy of Easter lilies, intertwined with similar, in front of which stood large white candles on pedestals caught with bunches of lilies and pink chrysanthemums. The bride wore a gown of white tulle and lace, and the groom a light, ethereal tulle made up of small pedestal vases of La France roses, with a background of pink and white. The wedding cake, which was placed on a table at the front of the room, was decorated in greens and pink blossoms, and the pedestal platters held lovely bunches of pink roses, lilies and chrysanthemums. The bride was attended by her bridesmaids, who wore light, ethereal tulle made up of small pedestal vases of La France roses, with a background of pink and white. The wedding cake, which was placed on a table at the front of the room, was decorated in greens and pink blossoms, and the pedestal platters held lovely bunches of pink roses, lilies and chrysanthemums.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown was an exquisite affair of softest white tulle, with a jacket of real lace, studded in pearls, and caught together at the front with a large tulle bow fastened with a pearl clasp. The skirt was made with a tulle, under which fell a ruffle of real lace, embroidered in pearls, and the long court train of brocade over which fell her bridal veil of tulle, hung from the shoulders, and was fastened with pearl buckles. Her veil was draped back from a cap of real lace, finished with a wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried a huge bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. W. Greenlee attended the brother's last man, and Mrs. Lawrence L. Lowener, of Harrisonburg, was her sister's dame of honor and only attendant. Mrs. Lowener wore her own bridal gown of white tulle and lace, and carried a French bouquet of Sweetheart roses tied with pink tulle and streamers of pinks. The ushers included Messrs. Abe Rosenbloom, Irving Greenlee, Sidney Stern, Morton Myer, Harry Levy and Walter Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. Greenlee left later for an extended honeymoon trip. The out-of-town guests attending the ceremony last evening were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Visiting Here. Mrs. Paul Phillips and her two children, of New York City, are in Richmond as the guests of the former's sister, Mrs. T. Moncreux Perkins, at 409 West Franklin Street. Beautiful Luncheon for Mrs. Seiff. One of the loveliest affairs of the spring season was the luncheon given Mrs. Charles Seiff, of New York, on Wednesday by her sister, Mrs. Newton McVeigh, at the Jefferson Hotel. The table was set with an exquisite central basket of purple lilies, hyacinths, epiphylls, poppies and daffodils, caught with butterfly bows of tulle and chiffon, and the candles were shaded in yellow. Tall vases and stands of lavender and yellow blossoms were arranged about the room in which the luncheon was served, and covers were laid for eight. Lovely corsage bouquets of lavender sweet peas marked the places of the guests, and Mrs. McVeigh invited to meet her sister Mrs. J. Taylor Ely, Mrs. Andrew Jackson Morris, Mrs. E. E. Leitch, Jr., Mrs. Edward Mayo, Mrs. Garnett Andrews, Mrs. Royall, Mrs. William J. Wallace and Mrs. Austin Brooksbrough.

Miss Johnston's Lecture. Miss Cora Johnston, one of the school nurses of the city, read an exceedingly interesting paper on Wednesday afternoon before the Parent Teacher Association of the John B. Cary School. Miss Johnston related the history of medical inspection in foreign countries, as well as in our own. Three years ago Dr. Ennett, assisted by Dr. Blackwell and five nurses, started medical inspection in the city schools here, and it ranks now among the best medical inspection bureaus in the United States. Miss Johnston's paper was a splendid plea for more nurses and clinics.
